

The image shows the front cover of an antique book. The cover is decorated with a marbled pattern in shades of brown, black, and gold. The marbling is a traditional 'stone' or 'shell' pattern. The cover is heavily worn, with significant peeling and loss of the top layer of material, especially along the edges and corners, revealing a lighter, possibly leather or paper, underlayer. In the center of the cover is a rectangular label with a cream-colored background and a thin red border. The label is divided into three horizontal sections by two thin red lines. Each section contains a large, green, serif number. The numbers are 13, 14, and 15, arranged vertically from top to bottom. The numbers are printed in a bold, slightly stylized font.

The image shows the front cover of an old book. The cover is made of dark brown leather, showing signs of wear and aging. On the left side, the spine is visible, featuring decorative blind-tooled patterns in a lighter color. In the center of the cover, there is a rectangular, light-colored paper label with a red border. The number '15' is printed in large, bold, red serif font on this label.
